Christopher Mattheisen leaves Magyar Telekom

Budapest – June 15, 2006 – Magyar Telekom (Reuters: NYSE: MTA.N, BÉT: MTEL.BU and Bloomberg: NYSE: MTA US, BÉT: MTELEKOM HB), the leading Hungarian telecommunications service provider, today announced that Christopher Mattheisen, the Chief Operating Officer (COO) of the Wireline Services Line of Business has resigned as of June 15, 2006. The Board of Directors has accepted his request.

Under the direction of Christopher Mattheisen, Magyar Telekom Group successfully developed the broadband market over the last four years and launched new, innovative solutions onto the Hungarian telecommunications market. Christopher Mattheisen has also managed the expansion of the Wireline LoB into foreign markets efficiently. He will continue his carrier outside Hungary.

From 15th of June until the appointment of a replacement, his duties as Chief Operating Officer (COO) of the Wireline Services Line of Business (T-Com) will be temporarily carried out by the current deputy COO, György Simó, who is also the CEO of T-Online Hungary.
